Of course! you'd be looking at 1799.99 for the MacBook Pro that we were looking at, before AppleCare or anything, with your iMac most likely the hard drive is failing, potentially the logic board as well

The Logic board is failing which may be causing the Network Interface to stop working. Attached is a screenshot of the disk error. Performance is very slow. The costs to repair would be too high considering that other circuitry could be damaged and on the verge of failing.
